Rice was born in 1750 in North Carolina. It is uncertain what county he was born in but possibly Duplin Co. as his father owned land there.

There are those who say his first name was Uriah and that Rice is a nickname. I have not found any sources that substantiate this claim. All legal documents, i.e. deeds, census, and legal give the name Rice.

Hi Shirley: The Bass family appears to be a matter of fiction, wishful thinking, and some facts scattered in.

DNA hasn't cleared the issue either. For instance given that the DNA of John Basse was R1b1, question is which flavor of that haplogroup there is the largely Scottish R-L21 and the largely Frisian R-L47 both of which have been found in Bass descendants. Some maintain that R-L21 can't be John Basse, because it is Scottish, but forget that the Roman Governor Agricola, and others who warred with the Scots, hauled by many in chains to London.

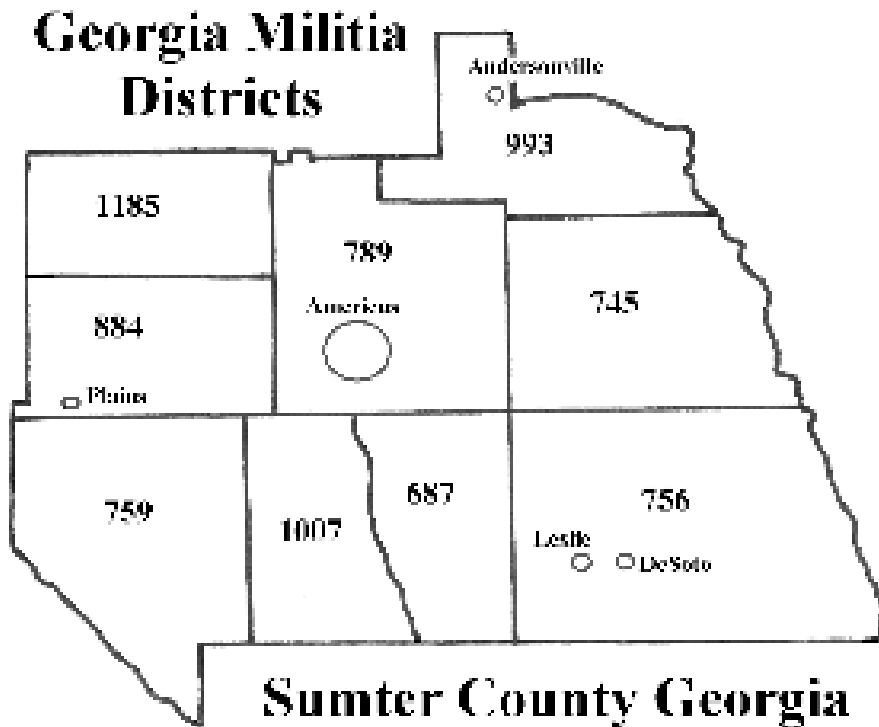

It is a quandry, and compounded by the fact that precious records that could clear up the question are lost forever. For instance:

NDEXhttp://www.usgennet.org/usa/nc/county/wayne/granteebooks/bk2.htm#N_1_BOOK_2
- April 1750 - April 1754]Johnston County was formed from the western part of Craven County in 1746 and in 1758, Dobbs County was formed from the eastern portion of Johnston; however, the records of Johnston went with the newly formed Dobbs. In 1779 Wayne County was formed from the western portion of Dobbs and in 1791, most of the remainder of Dobbs was divided into Glasgow - now Greene - and Lenoir Counties, and Dobbs ceased to exist. The records of early Johnston (and other Counties formed from Johnston), Wayne, Greene, and Lenoir Counties were placed at the Courthouse in Lenoir

County. In 1878, a Courthouse fire in Kinston destroyed almost all these records except the original Grantee Index. Greene County also suffered a destruction of its records in a similar fire. According to Charles Holloman, a Grantor Index was prepared from the Grantee Index and both those books were saved during another Courthouse fire in 1880. Transcribed from the Grantor Index and checked against the Grantee Index by Martha Mewborn Marble, 1377 Independence Ave., S. E., Washington, D.C. Kissimmee Valley Gazette, Friday, July 29, 1904
Crawford Bass

Another old resident of this community has gone to his reward and while he had not passed the allotted time of man, the summons was sudden and he was cut down almost unexpectedly.

Crawford Bass, was born in Sumter county, Georgia, about sixty-seven years ago, and when a young man came with his father's family to Florida and for the past thirty-five years resided in what is now Osceola county. He served as a soldier in the Indian war of '56 and at the breaking out of hostilities between the states enlisted in the Confederate service with he served faithfully and well until incapacitated by an attack of typhoid pneumonia which lasting several months he was sent home in charge of his brother George to recuperate; but the war ended before he was able to bear arms again. His health regained, he set about to make a home and repair his fortune. Always of a strong and robust constitution he was given to an active life and enjoyed excellent health until five years ago when he received a fall which impaired the action of his heart and ultimately caused his death last Tuesday. That morning he arose in usual health and went about his usual duties until about ten o'clock when he was assisting in some farm work some distance from the house when he was taken with an attack of the heart. He called his son who was near who drove his wagon to where he was to carry him to the house. Unassisted he got in the wagon and out again at the yard gate. There a tremor seized him and he caught hold of the pickets to steady himself. His son noticed his agitation and ran to his assistance and caught him around the waist. As the son did so the father said, "I am gone," gave a convulsive shudder, fell in his son's arms who carried him into the house where he quickly passed away.

Word was sent to his relatives in town and arrangements made for his interment which occurred Wednesday morning at ten a'clock at Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Bass was twice married, and was the father of five sons, Messrs. Walter Bass, Sr., Rull Bass, Thomas A. Bass, Time Bass and Bass all of who with his last wife and numerous other relatives survive him.

Pioneer Osceolan Edna Bass Williams

Edna Bass Williams, a lifelong Kissimmee resident and member of a pioneer Osceola family, died Friday. She was 88 years old and lived at 1360 Lakeshore Drive.

'My dear, you don't have enough time to listen to all the wonderful things about my mother,' said Betty Martin, Mrs. Williams' daughter. 'She was just a good person.'

Mrs. Williams was the second-to-the-youngest of Mann and Annie Yates Bass's eight children. Her late husband was Steve Williams, a fellow native Osceolan.

Williams was a licensed practical nurse, a comforter in every sense of the word.

'She was always for the underdog,' said Martin. 'She was always helping young people. She loved children.'

Mrs. Doc 'Petie' Partin, agrees.

'She was such a help to her sister, Mrs. H.O. Partin,' said Partin. Mrs. H.O. 'Bertha' Partin was Partin's mother-in-law. 'And she always loved children. She kept my children so I could go horseback riding with my husband.'

Mrs. Williams was a member of First Christian Church, Kissimmee.

In addition to her daughter Betty of Kissimmee, Mrs. Williams is survived by a son, Dr. Jack L., Nashville, Ark.; seven grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Visitation for friends will be from 5-9 p.m. Monday at Grissom Funeral Home, Kissimmee. Graveside Funeral Services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Rose Hill Cemetery with the Rev. James G. Radebaugh, of the Church of the Messiah-Episcopal, Winter Garden, officiating.

After the brief skirmish at Webber's Bridge across the Trent River, Major James H. Craig and his men marched on into the town of New Bern - their objective. As the Redcoats entered, some Patriots took pot shots at them and even managed to kill Loyalist Capt. John Gordon of the NC Independent Dragoons. After this, there was no more opposition.

For two days, Major Craig occupied the town and burned the plantations of known Patriots. He burned the home of Briadier. General John Alexander Lillington and had his men to destroy all the rigging of the ships tied up to the town's waterfront. Their cargoes were also destroyed, including 3,000 barrels of salt.

When Dr. Alexander Gaston tried to make his escape by rowing across the Trent River, he was shot dead by a British officer right before his wife's eyes. Margaret Gaston knelt over the body of her husband, protecting it in vain with hers.

The British threatend that "the rebels should not have even the rest of the grave." Afterwards, Major Craig marched back towards the way he came - to Kingston, then to Wilmington.

In his 1833 pension application, John Williams (R11587) asserted:

"At Tuckahoe in Jones County, I was one of a party of 60 who attacked about 50 of the enemy and we drove them towards Wilmington. We were the commanded by Capt. Benjamin Williams - the enemy by Capt. John Gordon who was killed. I myself took Capt. Gordon's horse, pistols, Bridle, Saddle & Spurs & killed one of his men who fired at me. We got 20 of their guns which had been thrown away - I had a ball shot through my hair."
