

Note: There is no DNA or paper connection between Richard and our Andrew (1730). It is however important to detail the other Bass lines living in and around our own.

Bass

THE BASS FAMILY
By Edith DeShazo Nichols

The family name of Bass is mentioned in the records of Essex County, Leicestershire, and in Rutlandshire, in Central and South-eastern England. It is possible that the original Bass came to England with the Norman Conquest, as the name is supposedly derived from the French word "bas", meaning short. In England Bass ale is well known, and the family owned the establishment through the centuries, until sold for ten million dollars several years ago. In 1630 three Bass brothers came to the United States and settled in New England. The first Episcopal bishop in America was Bishop Bass of Boston.

Even prior to this, however, Captain Nathaniel Bass was one of the earliest settlers of Virginia, and it is from him that the Bass family in Northern Alabama is descended. Nathaniel Bass was a son of Humphery Bass, a merchant of London, England. In 1613 he married Mary Jourdan. In 1621 or 1622 he establish his "Bass's Choice" Plantation in Isle of Wight County, Virginia. His son, John Bass, married Keziah Tucker, an Indian girl.

Their son, Richard Bass, was born on August 2, 1658 and died on December 26, 1722. His first wife, Jane Bryant, was born on December 17, 1665 and married on November 6, 1680. Their children were Charles, James, Matthew, Keziah, and Anna. After her death he married Mary Burwell and they had children named Andrew, Alexander, Richard, Mary, William, Uriah, and Thomas. Most of these moved to Craven County, North Carolina, and thence to Johnston, Wayne, Duplin, and Sampson counties. The preceding information about the Richard Bass family is from an undated certificate (possibly about 1725) signed by William Rudd, M.G. and C.L., Parish of Elizabeth River in Virginia. This certificate appears in a book "Bass Families of the South" by Dr. Albert D. Bell, copyright 1961.

From Bass FB Page:

I went over this document and it is full of misinformation. It contains the false Portlock document that was dismissed in court. Bright also claims there is proof that there were two Nathaniel's and the one who was the son of Humphrey died without issue. Stephaun DePaul debunks the myth of two Nathaniel's in his excellent work titled The Polemic. The lie about Nathaniel not having children was started by one or two of his sisters and one husband who filed a document in court in London to attempt to inherit all of Nathaniel's wealth. It was dismissed. There was a lawsuit filed in Virginia or North Carolina against the estate of Nathaniel for a long standing debt that was never paid. The court ordered Nathaniel's heirs, his children to pay whoever filed the suit so many pounds of tobacco. I am surprised he stopped there because there are more ridiculous claims about the Bass family. These things are like the Frankenstein monster, they just never go away.

William Rudd, Clergyman of the Parish of Elizabeth River Church, stated "These are peaceful subjects of His Majesty George I, King and defender of ye faith, numbered among ye Nansiemum people, freeborn, and worthy of ye respectfull consideration of Christians in ye Church in Carolina as in Virginia and intitled to the same."

Evidently the Basse family was preparing to move south to North Carolina. It was the custom to be released from one Parish so that they could transfer to the Parish church in their new area. As the above-statement was not dated, it probably pertained to the children of Richard Basse, Sr., as he died in Nansemond, Virginia, on St. Stephen's Day 26 Dec 1722.

It is son Andrew that we find later in North Carolina.

Email to Mike Crandall from Fred Bright fbright@aquik.net. Treasurer of the Nansemond Indian Tribe: There are some real problems with Richard. According to Bell, he had two wives, however there are court records that record his first wife being brought to court for leaving her children alone while away, this at a time when his first wife was supposed to be dear. There is also a court document showing him in a transfer of land for a tobacco crop listing his wife as a signatory giving up her dower rights on the property. I would wait a while before counting on Richard to be solid information. It may be that Richard is a correct ancestor, however there were apparently two Richards at that time and we have not been able to dig them out for a certainty. It could be that there were two richards at that time (probably related) and they were mixed up. Leah has some additional information on them but it is taking time to dig it out.

There is a controversy surrounding the marriage of Richard Basse to Mary Burwell, See below. 10 Richard Basse, seventh of the eight children of John and Elizabeth/Keziah Basse, is said to have been born in Nansemond County, Virginia, on August 2, 1658. This information comes from a certificate said to be in the possession of family members. The certificate says that Richard married Jane Bryant on November 6, 1680; that she died on February 14, 1690, having borne six children in nine years; and that Richard then married Mary Burwell on August 25, 1695 and had six more children by her. Dowd, Sylvestri, and the Nansemonds have produced court records proving that Jane Basse was still alive at least as late as 1701. They claim that the certificate is a forgery; that Richard never married Mary Burwell; and that the last four children (at least) attributed to Richard were probably grandchildren of John's brother Edward (who may also have married an Indian, but if so she was a Chowan rather than a Nansemond). In any case, Richard Basse is said to have died on December 26, 1722. <http://www.unc.edu/~rowlett/families/bass.htm> Richard, son of John Basse and Elizabeth Nansemond, was born 2 August 1658 in Nansemond, Virginia Colony. He passed away on 26 December 1722 in Nansemond. For reference, the following certificate has been quoted in whole or in part on a number of websites. It appears to have been written in consideration of the planned move of the family of Richard Bass (Richard died in Virginia) from Virginia to North Carolina. It is purportedly held by the Bass family of Bowers Hill, Virginia, and is said to be on file at the University of Virginia Library. Confirmation of the accuracy of this certificate and its location would be appreciated. "In the name of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Amen. Richard Bass, son of John Bass and Keziah his wife was borned on ye Second day of August in the year of our Lord 1658. Jane Bryant was borned on ye 17th day of December in the year of our Lord 1665. "The statement that Richard was married twice, to Jane Bryant and Mary Burwell, has been contested by the Nansemond Tribe of Virginia based on the existence of a land transaction filed in Henrico County, Virginia, dated 31 (?) something happened there. The marriage of John & Elizabeth in 1638 was most likely an arrangement between the settlement & the tribe for mutual benefit.. it offered some protection for both sides. They remained together until death. In a matrilineal society in that timeframe Elizabeth had total say over her marriage & home. They lived with the tribe as custom dictated. She didn't go live with John. After the birth of the first child the family would be considered Nansemond or FPOC.

I think you're right about the line ending except for descendants of William 1654. One male heir in addition to him would've left descendants that would have surfaced by now. The 2008 study in England was released in 2014 I think. That study was the best shot for a match.

John & Elizabeth had another son born 1658.. Richard. His ydna from marriage to Jane remained Basse R M269 L47.

!This family may be correct.

But some of the Family information in the book , "Bass Families of the South" has been found to be incorrect.

Their website can be found at; <http://www.nansemond.nativeland.com/bass.htm>

There are two manuscripts owned by the Tribe that can be purchased from them. One of the manuscripts is the following;

Early Basses in Virginia Including Captain Nathaniel Basse

by Lea L. Dowd and Patti L. Silvestri

Mrs. Dowd and Mrs. Silvestri, were the former editors of Southern Bass, a BASS family quarterly that was published for a little more than 4 years. They have donated these manuscripts to the Nansemond Tribe. The money raised from the sale of these manuscripts is to be used for the development of the Nansemond Indian Tribal Cultural Center.

This manuscript contains records and information which differentiate Captain Nathaniel Basse from Nathaniel Basse, son of Humphrey Basse. This manuscript is a culmination of many years of effort by several Bass descendants who joined efforts for this research. This manuscript is approximately 42 pages and contains copies of original records that were used to support their findings. It corrects some of the previously published errors about this BASSE line.

Richard Bass was the son of Andrew (4)

Bass, born June 9, 1698 in Norfolk Co., Va., died 1770 in Craven

Co., N. C., married Elizabeth Smith, born about 1700 in Craven Co.,

N. C., the daughter of William and Mary Blount Smith.

Andrew Bass Note Page This information was found online at:

The book "Bass Families of the South" by Albert D. Bell, 1961, provides us with much information on the Basse/Bass lines. We also have searched Parish records in England and found more children and dates that were not mentioned in the book. All the information we have found is in the note pages below.

ANDREW BASSE, Planter, fifth son born to Richard Basse on 9 Jun 1698. He married ELIZABETH SMITH ca 1728 probably in Norfolk Co., Virginia. Their three children are:

1) RICHARD (Jr.). b. ca 1730 "Jr." in this case means the "younger" -

Uncle Richard the SR.)

m. SARAH ?

ch. Edward, Mizabeth, Andrew, Sarah, URIAH

d. 1792 Wayne Co., NC

2) Anne.....b. ca 1735

m. Richard Blackledge, before 1754

ch. Richard Jr., Thomas, Elizabeth, Eleanor,

Sarah, William

3) Andrew (Jr)..... b. ca 1740 (later Sr.)

m. Ann ?

d. 15 Mar 1791 Wayne Co., NC

He was a Doctor and called "Esquire"

Andrew Basse Sr. seems to be the first of the Basse males to acquire considerable acreage in North Carolina. (Actually North Carolina was part of Virginia until 1737).

There are many deeds pertaining to him in the Counties of Johnston, Dobbs, Jones, Lenoir, Wilson, Craven, Dublin and Pamlico and others. It is not that he or his family moved, it is that the county lines changed. The counties were named after men of great service to the state, and when the men fell into disfavor, the county name would be changed again. North Carolina has one of the most confusing county boundaries, dates and names.

Andrew Basse Sr. acquired 475 acres in Craven Co. in 1737; 650 acres in 1739; 450 acres in 1757; In Johnston Co. 309 acres in 1756, 475 acres in 1759; In Dublin Co. 200 acres in 1768. (Listed under Patents granted in His Majesty's part of the Province of North Carolina, Colonial Office 5/319, London, England). The North Carolina Tax List 1763-1835 lists Andrew Basse Sr. with 5,770 acres and 12 Black slaves.

10 August 1754 Andrew Bass Sr. (note "e" in Basse now dropped) grants Power of Attorney to Richard Blackledge (his son-in-law) in Craven County, NC

10 September 1754 Andrew Bass Sr. of Johnston Co., NC deeds gift of 225 acres to Richard Blackledge. If Richard to die, plantation to be divided between sons Richard and Andrew Bass Jr.

5 August 1765 Andrew Bass Sr. of Dobbs Co., NC sells 100 acres to Richard Blackledge of Craven Co., NC

24 November 1767 Andrew Bass Sr. of Dobbs Co., Planter, to Richard Blackledge for love and affection (a gift) for better maintenance of my said son-in-law and grandchildren:

Richard Blackledge Jr.

4 negroes

Thomas Blackledge

3 negroes

Elizabeth Blackledge

one feather bed & furniture

Eleanor Blackledge

one feather bed & furniture

Sarah Blackledge

one feather bed & furniture

Richard Blackledge Sr.

1/4 part of all cattle

(Book 15, p.218 New Bern, NC)

24 November 1767 Andrew Bass Sr. of Dobbs Co., Planter, for 5 shillings paid by son Richard Bass, & Richard Blackledge, son-in-law, grants them all the rest & residue of my goods, chattles, and personal estate for each's behoof and in trust for his children.

(Book 15, P.221 at New Bern, Craven Co., NC)

24 November 1767 Andrew Bass Sr. of Dobbs Co., Planter for love and affection (gift) to oldest son RICHARD BASS and his children: Edward, Andrew, URIAH, Elizabeth and Sarah all the lands lying to the westward of the Great Branch including the plantation I now dwell and reside.

RICHARD BASS

negro man, 1/4 of cattle

Edward Bass

negroes

Andrew Bass

2 negroes

URIAH BASS

4 negroes

Elizabeth Bass

1 feather bed & furniture

Sarah Bass

1 feather bed & furniture

(Book 15, p.223 at New Bern, Craven Co., NC)

There seems to be no mention of Andrew's wife, Elizabeth, so in all probability she had died by the time he deeded the gifts of land, stock and negroes to his children and grandchildren. Son Andrew goes on to become a "Doctor" and used the title of "Esquire" and became a prominent figure in North Carolina. (Large "Planters" and wealthy merchants affixed the title "Gentleman" or "Esquire" or "Planter" after their name.)

Andrew Bass Sr.'s will dated 22 Jan 1770 and probated in the March Court, Craven Co., NC, names son Richard Jr., Son Andrew Jr., and son-in-law Richard Blackledge "to equally divide between them and their heirs a total of 116, 5 shillings owed from other estates." Grandson URIA H BASS, Thomas Blackledge, William Blackledge to have 70 laid out for 2 young negro girls. Grandson Richard Blackledge Jr. one negro. Grandson Andrew to have land rented to give him income for an education. Also land on Gray's Branch on NE Cape Fear River in Duplin County to be sold. Executors: Son Richard Bass Jr., Son-in-law Richard Blackledge & 2 grandsons (illegible).

There remain many more deeds that we have not uncovered yet pertaining to the exchange of land among the Basse/Bass family. We wonder why it is that so many tracts of land were given or sold to Richard Blackledge? However, the shares he received were in actuality, his wife Anne's. Women lost title of their property to their husbands when they married!

It would also appear that Andrew Basse Jr. (Dr.) and his wife Ann remained childless as we never found mention of any grandchildren receiving land, negroes or feather beds, etc.

During the Revolutionary War in 1776, the Bass family split into two factions: Andrew Bass Jr. and his family heartily joined and distinguished themselves as patriots. Andrew's kinsmen Aaron Bass and his sons Moses, William, Edward, Aaron, resisted all comers, British and Patriot, and threatened to kill Governor Richard Caswell when the local militia attempted to draft them. The 3rd NC Regiment rounded up the dissenters of the Bass Clan and arrested them.

The Fifth Provincial Congress which met at Halifax, NC on 12 November 1776 was represented by Dobbs Co. with Richard Caswell (1st Governmor of NC in 1777). Simon Bright from the Kinston area (took "g it out of Kinaston because of dissention with England and the King), Abraham Sheppard and Benjamin Exum from northern Dobbs Co., and Andrew Bass Jr. who lived where Goldsboro,, NC now stands.
